Paperback. Book Condition: New. Paperback. 56 pages. Do you remember how you felt on the first day at a new school If you were like me, it was equal parts anxiety, dread, and disorientation. Lots of people milling around, and they all seemed to know each other, but I didnt know any of them. It was similar the first time I went to a conference. I was rushed through the check-in line, given my badge and attendee bag, and just pushed on to figure things out. I didnt know who was who - it was a blur of nametags racing by me. But where were they all going I had no idea. I felt like I was a stranger in a strange land. So I sat in a corner, put on some headphones, and dug into my bag of conference information. There was a schedule with lots of things going on at the same time, and I didnt know where to begin. My eyes glazed over, and I felt sort of helpless. When it came time for lunch, I left the hotel and grabbed some food at a local restaurant by myself. I dont think I really talked to anybody at the whole conference. One big problem was that I went into the whole thing without a plan. I just showed up and expected Id just magically get it. My lack of advance planning made the time spent there, as well as the money for the trip, into a big waste. When I got back to the office, I told the boss how lame it was, and how I wouldnt recommend returning next year. The next time I was sent to a conference, I made sure to do some homework in advance to figure out who I might want to...
